This page requires special study before accepting any of the data following Line 24.
Note that HUEKEL (also HUKIL on the same line) has been inserted out of place in relation to any named infant, thus throwing all of the succeeding sets of parent names one line below that of the proper infant. It must be assumed that this confusion continues to the bottom of the page.

Line 145 - The surname difficult to decipher, this effort probably not accurate.

Lines 155 thru 162 - The same problem as on previous pages. In the space for the infant's name, the father's name is given.

Line 159 - This version of the mother's surname is unlikely. It is probably GILCHRIST or GILCREST.

Lines 169 & 170 - The month of the date is impossible to read accurately, except for the first letter. It may be either March or May.

Note: Where an asterisk (*) occurs, the information is questionable.
In the child's given name column, it is obvious that the father's name has been given rather than the child's.

PROBATE COURT CORRECTIONS

Throughout the pages of the original journal occur a number of cases where, in later years (mostly the 1940s), corrections to names and/or birth-dates were made in that journal by order of the Probate Court. Rather than detail all of these corrections here, we have listed the surname, the page and line number of each case below. In this reproduction of the birth records we have used the corrected version.

In each case, the page number is at the left, and the line numbers at the right.

Until now, given names have been mentioned only briefly. Before going on to the first page of the birth records, all of the cautions concerning surnames now need to be extended to given names. Even a brief scanning through these pages would lead the casual reader to the conclusion that an exceptionally poor typist has been at work. Unfortunately, this is not the case. Every precaution has been taken to keep errors to a reasonable minimum. A few typographical errors have doubtless exercised their slippery ways, but, as a general rule, the mysterious, awesome and often laughable spellings of names are as they occur in the journal pages. No attempt has been made to correct even the most obvious mistakes. Every name has been reproduced in these pages as closely as it can be deciphered from the original journals. It should be noted that, in general, the penmanship of the Birth Record Journals is very good. Since it is obvious that these records were copied from other sources, it is likely that the major flaws occur in those other sources.

BIRTH RECORDS

SURNAMES

In verbal exchange, the ideal is perfect harmony between what one person says and the other hears. Mostly, however, this exchange falls far short of harmony. The listener chooses his or her own interpretation of what the talker says. Mostly, this flawed exchange is faulty hearing at odds with faulty diction. Nowhere is this flawed exchange more evident than in the giving and receiving of personal names. When the listener is committed to writing the name on paper (or computer screen), the evidence of the flaw remains for all future readers to accept or to cluck over. That the problem is serious is testified to by the number of cases for name-change that have gone to pro bate courts. No group knows better the extent of the problem than that of genealogists.

When the instrument of writing is held and guided by the human hand, at times it seems that an overactive imagination is more at fault than flawed hearing. In a loose sort of way, the writing hand seems to have a mind of its own that is continually wandering off on missions of its own choosing.

Three lists of surnames follow as illustration of the preceding paragraphs. Anyone attempting to make sense of the birth records that occupy this book is advised to take a little time to study these lists. Each of these names, by whatever spelling they are found in these lists, will also be found somewhere within the remaining pages.

Most astonishing is the first list. On each line below are two different versions of, supposedly, the same surname. The unexplainable surprise is that both versions occupy the same line of the original records--one version for the infant, the other for the parents.

The second list attempts to ilustrate the extent that spelling can deviate from the accepted norm. At the left is the usual spelling of each surname. To the right of each march all the variations that will be found within this volume of birth records.

The final list might be called a role of mystery guests. In these spellings, they occur in no other sources concerning Jefferson County, nor in any general books about surnames. What they are, of course, are misspellings--most of them probably of familiar names--if only the phonetic equivalent would occur to us. This list is for each user to decipher according to his or her own knowledge, personal or general.

BIRTH RECORDS
JEFFERSON COUNTY, OHIO
Volume I
1867 - 1879

INTRODUCTION

Until the mid-1860's, no birth records were kept by any government agency. At that time, Ohio passed a law requiring the registering of all births within each county, giving the responsibility of recording them to the Probate Courts.

The records of births in the following pages are taken from the microfilm reproductions of the Probate Court journal. This microfilm can be found in the Local History Room of the Schiappa Branch of the Public Library of Steubenville and Jefferson County.

The birth records available on microfilm are on two reels, covering the years 1867 to 1904, divided into four original volumes of court journals. These printed pages include all of Volume I.

The original records occupy two facing pages of each journal. On the left page is all the data pertaining to the infant, including full name, date of birth, and place of birth. (An interesting sidelight on these early records is that the birth was recorded in Jefferson County, even if the actual birth was outside this county, or this state, or even this country. Apparently, the only requirement was that the parents be residents of this county.) The right-hand page of the journal contains all the data concerning the parents, including full names and place of residence within Jefferson County.

Because of space limitations, no data about place of birth or residence is included in these printed pages.

In the beginning, when the registration law was new, records were kept in a somewhat haphazard fashion. As shown on the microfilm reproduction, there are many gaps in the data--unfortunately, most often in the names of infants, and of mothers' maiden names. With respect to the information given, this printed volume is reproduced as closely as practical to the original, including all of the gaps, which appear in these pages as blank spaces, or in notations as given in the original journals, such as "Not Named".

Be forewarned that many mistakes occur throughout the original journals, and take a variety of forms. Beside the expected misspelling of names, line numbers are missing or are duplicated, there are inconsistencies between infant name and gender, parent names occupy the space where the infant's name should be, and in one situation, a group of parent names were recorded one line below the proper place. Rather than try to detail all of these mistakes in this introduction, we have attempted to deal with each one on its page of occurence, as footnotes. Most of the mistakes are obvious, and raise no questions. There is, however, one type of apparent mistake that needs elaboration.

For the first few years, birth records were kept by the calendar: 1867, 1868, etc. But then for a reason we have failed to discover, the records went to a split-year format. The records for the last nine months of a year (1877, for example) include the first three months of the following year (in the example, 1878). In many obvious cases, the wrong year was recorded for one of the later months. (As example, when November is being recorded for the births for 1877, a November birth suddenly shows 1878. Although this should raise a slight doubt, it is fairly certain that this is merely a clerical error.) On the other hand, another APPARENT error requires more careful consideration.

The split-year format begins with April, and supposedly should run only to the end of March of the succeeding year. However, it happens often enough to arouse strong suspicion that dates are recorded for April at both the beginning and the end of the recording period--that is, for both April, 1877 and April, 1878. It happens often enough that suspicion is aroused, and should be satisfied by considering the possibility that the year as given could be wrong. Every occurence of this dilemma is dealt with by attaching a footnote to the appropriate page.

It was noted earlier that the information for each birth was recorded on two facing pages of the original journals. These pages were numbered consecutively, so the data for each infant fell on two page numbers: 2 and 3, 4 and 5, 6 and 7, etc. In this current volume, half of the original page-numbering has been retained, limited to the even numbers: 2, 4, 6, etc. up to 362. These are the numbers given in the index. To avoid confusion, these pages carry no other number--that is, no numbers for the physical sheets of this book. The pages of the index are conventionally numbered, beginning with the appropriate number for that section of this book.

It should be noted that the page numbers of the original journal, as reproduced here carry a letter "A" that does not appear on the original page. The "A" has been added to designate the first volume of Jefferson County Birth Records. The second volume will carry a "B", the third a "C", and the fourth a "D".

Finally, there is the persistent problem of misspelled names, especially surnames. To help with this problem, several lists of surnames occupy the next few pages. The careful researcher will take the time to study these lists, if only to understand the extent of the problem.

In addition to the above cautions, a number of question marks will be found in the following pages, mainly beside surnames. These do not appear on the original journal pages. They have been added as special warning that the surname is unlikely correct as it is shown.

A "B" beside a line number refers to an African-American birth.

Lines 517/521/530 - Two different spellings of the same surname.
Line 535 - Without extensive research, there is no way of deciding which is the correct surname.
Lines 513/514/515 - Two of these three infants are twins, but the confusion of dates and parents' names prevents the solution without further research.
